If Patient Passes All Criteria:
Thank you. Your responses have met the preliminary criteria for the study.

If you're still interested, the next step is for your local study center to contact you directly. They will tell you more about the study, and answer any questions you might have. By speaking with your local study site, you are not under any obligation to join the study. Also, only your local study site can determine whether you may qualify to join the study.

Please note: your contact information will only be shared with your local study site so that they can follow-up with you directly – it is not used for any other purpose.
